DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).
3. Claims 13-21 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ross et al. 6,610,770, in view of Beall et al. 5,804,613.
4. Ross et al. disclose a fire retardant polymer composition comprising smectite clay modified with one or more quaternary ammonium compounds and organic material capable of intercalating the clay and a polymer, with the organic material being present in a concentration of 1-50 wt.% of the clay (claim 1). The clay and the organic material are present in a concentration of 1-40 wt% of the polymer (claim 2). The organic material is an organic acid (claim 3). The polymer can be polycarbonate (claim 4). The clay can be montmorillonite or hectorite (column 6, lines 50-67). Dimethyl bis(hydrogenated tallow) ammonium chloride is described in column

8, lines 35-60. The organic acid can be citric acid (column 9, line 16). Ross et al. do not mention the particle size of the clay, however Beall et al., who teach polycarbonate in claim 37 and organic acid-functional compound as intercalant material in claim 14, recite a smectite clay material having a thickness of 0.3-5 nm (column 4, lines 30-34) and an aspect ratio of 200-2000 (column 7, lines 47-50). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art; at the time the invention was made, to select the particle size of Beall et al. for use in the composition of Ross et al., since they reveal similar compositions. The claimed impact strength improvement is inherent in the composition. The burden is shifted to applicants to prove that the composition of Ross et al., as modified by Beall et al., would not yield a polycarbonate composition with comparable impact strength.
